REAL ESTATE STRATEGIES CORPORATION RELOCATES IT COMPANY HQ AND BUILDS LONG TERM CLIENT

Kenilworth, NJ: July 26, 2004 Andrew B. Zezas, SIOR, President of Real Estate Strategies Corporation, announced today the completion of a headquarters relocation of ThinkCentric, Inc. The Company recently moved into its new headquarters in Farmingdale, New Jersey, having relocated from its former facility in Freehold, New Jersey.

“ThinkCentric’s lease was about to expire, and the Company was in need of expert advice. Their Chief Executive Officer and Co-founder engaged us to plan and execute a business driven real estate solution that would support the Company’s growth projections and retain key employees,” according to Zezas.

RealStrat conducted a thorough analysis of ThinkCentric’s business requirements and employee expectations and put in-place a geographic and property evaluation process that exceeded the Company’s expectations. “I was literally floored when I heard of the proposition and business service model of Andrew Zezas and Real Estate Strategies Corporation” according to John Haines, Chief Executive Officer and Co-founder of ThinkCentric. Mr. Haines continued, “Better yet, Mr. Zezas and his company were the most important component of our move from picking out the right property at the best location, with by far the greatest savings. Am I a dedicated customer? Absolutely! We will constantly be looking for real estate to accommodate our growth projections well into the next decade. Who do you think we will choose as our real estate advisor? Real Estate Strategies Corporation.”
